APPENDIX.

CONDITIONS OF MEMBERSHIP.

The Seminary is open for the admission of Protestants of all denominations.

Every applicant for the privileges of the Seminary must, previously to his admission, present to the Faculty satisfactory testimonials respecting his Christian character, his regular membership in a Church of Christ, his possession of good natural talents, and his having received a complete collegiate education, or its equivalent so far as concerns preparation for theological studies. Exception is made in some cases to the requirement of formal connection with a Church, and the applicant is, in such case, required to subscribe a declaration of his belief in the Christian religion.

Candidates for admission will be examined with reference to their personal piety, their object in pursuing theological studies, and their knowledge of the classic languages. If they have not received a collegiate diploma, they will be further examined in Mathematics, Logic, Rhetoric, Natural Philosophy, Astronomy, and Intellectual Philosophy.

In case of application for admission to an advanced standing, the candidate will be liable to an examination also in all the studies which have been pursued by the class with which he wishes to be connected.

All candidates for admission are required to express their purpose to complete, at some place, three full years of theological study, unless prevented by some unforeseen and unavoidable necessity.

Admission to the Class of Resident Licentiates is granted only to those who make application for it to the Faculty, and who have honorably completed a course of three years of professional study at a Theological Seminary, or have otherwise obtained the equivalent of such a course. Exception to this rule is made in rare cases, in which persons having in view the missionary service, or some other peculiar ministerial duty, have not been able to pursue a regular course of theological discipline.

TERMS AND VACATIONS.

This Institution is designed to give the most thorough theological culture that can be obtained by a course of three years' study.

To effect this object, it is deemed essential that nine full months be devoted to study in each year, and that this period be so divided by suitable vacations as to secure to the studies of the Course those portions of the year which are most favorable to mental vigor.

Accordingly, the Anniversary is held on the first Thursday in August. The first Term commences six weeks after the Anniversary, and continues till six weeks before the first Thursday in May. The second Term commences on the first Thursday in May, and continues till the Anniversary.

The Lectures to all the classes begin promptly: it is therefore important that all the students should be present at the beginning of the year, in September. In the study of Hebrew, any considerable loss of time at this stage will subject the student to a serious disadvantage.

It is, furthermore, earnestly recommended that students, if possible, so arrange their plans that the whole of every term shall be devoted exclusively to their duties in the Seminary. Experience has proved that the labor of teaching, and of other similar avocations, during term-time is an evil. Students are advised to avoid it. Even the vacations should not be unnecessarily spent in exhausting pursuits.

COURSE OF INSTRUCTION.

The plan of study is designed to concentrate attention, as far as this is practicable, upon single departments in succession.

Accordingly, the first year of the Course is given mainly to the study of the Scriptures; the second, to that of Systematic Theology; and the third is necessarily divided between the departments of Ecclesiastical History and Sacred Rhetoric. Exegetical studies, however, are continued, in voluntary exercises, through the entire Course.

The following Schedule presents in detail the chief exercises of each department:

JUNIOR YEAR.

FIRST TERM.

Professor Thayer. Lectures. Exegetical Theology: its several departments, together with books relating to the same. Language of the New Testament: its Origin; its Relations; its Characteristics. [Collection of the Sacred Books, i.e. the Canon of the New Testament]. The Gospels: their Nature; their Relations to each other; Theories of their Origin. Preservation of the New Testament: the Written Text; Textual Criticism; the Printed Text. Interpretation of the New Testament: — comprising general Remarks upon Hermeneutics; the study of Robinson's "Greek Harmony of the Gospels"; and exegetical Essays by the class.

Professor Mead. Hebrew Grammar (Rödiger's Gesenius'); Recitations of select portions of the Pentateuch in Hebrew, with Discussions on the topics to which they relate; Recitations of portions of the Psalms in Hebrew, including the principal Messianic Psalms; Discussions respecting the principles of Messianic Prophecy, the nature of the Prophetic Imprecation, the doctrine of Divine Retribution as developed in the Old Testament, and other topics connected with the Interpretation of the Psalms.

Lectures on the Canon of the Old Testament. Essays by the class.

SECOND TERM.

PROFESSOR THAYER. Lectures. The Dissemination of the New Testament, i.e. some account of Translations.

The Epistle to the Romans or that to the Hebrews. Essays by the class.

PROFESSOR MEAD. Selections from the Prophetic Books, with accompanying Lectures and Discussions. Essays by the class.

MIDDLE YEAR.

FIRST TERM.

PROFESSOR PARK. Lectures. The Existence and Attributes of God; Pantheism; the Immortality of the Soul; Divine Authority and Inspiration of the Bible; the Trinity; Purposes of God — Election; Natural and Moral Government of God; the Conscience; the Will; Nature of Holiness and Sin; the Permission of Sin; Total Depravity; Natural State of Man; the Apostasy.

SECOND TERM.

PROFESSOR PARK. Lectures. The Atonement; Regeneration; Sanctification — the Christian Virtues, Various Theories of Christian Perfection, Perseverance of the Saints; Justification by Faith; Eschatology — the Resurrection, Judgment, Future Punishment; Positive Institutions — the Church, the Ministry; Sacraments — Baptism, the Lord's Supper.

The Lectures are interspersed with evening discussions, and with frequent examinations of the Class, on Ethical and Theological topics; also with voluntary exercises on those branches of Mental Philosophy which have a special relation to theology; also with written Theses of the students.

SENIOR YEAR.

FIRST TERM.

Professor Phelps. Lectures. First Course. — General Rhetoric: Province of Rhetoric; History of the Science; Alliance with other Sciences; Relation to Preaching; The Rhetorical and the Scientific forms of Truth.

Second Course. — Sources of Rhetorical Science: Study of Men; Scholastic abuses of the Pulpit; Study of Models in Literature, its Objects, its Subjects, its Methods; Relative Importance of National Literatures; Study of Professional Literature; the Scriptures as Literary Models; the Scriptural and the Theological Forms of Truth; Methods of Study of English Literature; Representatives of the English Pulpit; Study of Rhetorical Treatises.

Third Course. — Homiletics; Generic Idea of a Sermon; Classification of Sermons; Analysis of a Sermon; Construction, Composition, and Delivery of a Sermon; Expository Preaching; Preaching of Doctrines; Causes of Failure in Applications of Truth.

Exercises in Criticism. Sermons and Plans of Sermons by the Class, criticised in private.

Professor Smyth. Lectures. Idea of History: Of Church History; Origin of the phrase Kingdom of God; General Characteristics of this Kingdom; the Christian Church — its Principle, Purpose, Visibility, Condition in the World, Law of Development; Scope of the Department of Ecclesiastical History; Relation to other branches of Theological Study; to General History; Sources, Method, Periods, and Epochs of Church History; Objects and Value of the Study.

Recitations heard from Guericke's Manual of Church History and Shedd's History of Christian Doctrines, interspersed with Lectures; Select Readings from the Fathers, and Dissertations from members of the Class.

SECOND TERM.

Professor Phelps. Lectures. English Style — Theory of Style; Criticism of Qualities of Style; Means of forming Style; Provincialisms; Theological Dialect; History of English Style.

Exercises in Criticism. Sermons and Plans of Sermons by the Class, criticised in private.

Professor Smyth. Lectures. History of Doctrines continued; History of Symbols; History of the Congregational Polity. Lectures also on the Pastoral Charge.

EXAMINATIONS.

At the close of each term the students are publicly examined by their respective instructors, before a Board of Examiners, on the studies of the term. The first examination of this year will begin on Monday, March 18, and occupy three days. The second will begin on Monday, July 29, and occupy two days. The Anniversary Exercises will take place on the two following days, July 31 and Aug. 1.

SPECIAL COURSES OF LECTURES.

In addition to the regular course of instruction, provision has recently been made for the delivery of special courses of lectures, by eminent clergymen, on the following subjects: Foreign Missions, Home Missions, Revivals of Religion, Popular Infidelity, and Congregationalism.

Special instruction is also given, in public and private lessons, by a Professor of Elocution during the Second Term.

SOCIETIES.

The Porter Rhetorical Society meets weekly for Literary Criticism, Discussions, and Orations. Once each month this Society holds a public meeting, which is attended by the citizens of the place.

The Society of Inquiry is specially designed for the Study of Missions. It holds bi-weekly meetings, whose exercises are enriched by correspondence with those of the Alumni of the Seminary who are in the Missionary service.

The two Societies unite at the close of the year in a public Anniversary Exercise, at which Addresses are delivered by members of the Societies.

LIBRARIES.

The Library of the Porter Rhetorical Society numbers about 3,500 volumes.

The Library of the Seminary, lately removed to Brechin Hall, erected for it by the munificence of the Messieurs John Smith, Peter Smith, and John Dove, of Andover, has been enriched during the last year by the purchase of the library of the late Dr. Niedner, Professor of Church History in the University of Berlin, and now numbers about 28,000 volumes. It is opened daily for the inspection and drawing of books.

The Library is annually increased by the income of funds appropriated to this object.

EXPENSES AND BENEFICIARY AID.

EXPENSES.

No expense is incurred for instruction, and none by undergraduates for rooms in the public buildings, except three dollars a year for the care of rooms and beds, and for repair of buildings.

Each student also pays three dollars a year for the use of the Library, and five dollars a year for the care, warming, and lighting of lecture-rooms and the chapel, for the ringing of the bell, and for other incidental expenses.

Resident Licentiates pay three dollars a year for the use of the Library.

The rooms in the Seminary are supplied with beds, bedding, and some other furniture. The occupants provide stoves and such additional furniture as their habits may require. The average expense for fuel and lights, if a room has two occupants, is about twenty-five dollars a year.

Board can be obtained at the Seminary Club for the price of the raw material. The weekly expense is now about two dollars and seventy-five cents. In private families the price is about five dollars.

Washing is done for sixty cents the dozen pieces.

BENEFICIARY AID.

To those whose pecuniary necessities require it, one hundred dollars a year are given from the funds of the Seminary. Applicants for this aid are required to present certificates, signed by three responsible persons, testifying to their indigent circumstances. No student can receive charitable assistance the first year who is not examined and approved within the first five weeks of the year.

Beneficiaries of the American Education Society receive, in addition, such aid as the funds of the society may afford. The regular appropriations amount now to one hundred dollars annually. In view of the increased cost of living, a special gratuity of from five to ten dollars a quarter is also now given.

Still further assistance has been furnished in money and clothing, by individuals in the neighboring cities and villages, to such as have needed this aid. Contributions valued at several hundred dollars were thus appropriated during the last year.

A society of ladies exists, in connection with the Seminary, whose funds are specially devoted to the relief of students who are subjected to the expenses of sickness.

Members of the Senior Class are also able, generally, to add to their pecuniary resources by preaching in vacant pulpits during the Spring vacation and the Summer term.

SUMMARY.

NECESSARY ANNUAL EXPENSES.

1. Room and repairs - - - - - -	$3.00
2. Library - - - - - - -	3.00
3. Lecture-rooms and incidentals - - - -	5.00
4. Fuel and lights, if with a room-mate, average - -	25.00
5. Board at the Club - - - - -	110.00
Total - -	$146.00

To which are to be added the expenses of washing, mending, etc.

PECUNIARY AID.

1. From the Funds of the Seminary a sum which, added to the regular appropriations of the American Education Society, will amount to $200.

Besides this a special gratuity of from five to ten dollars a quarter is at present granted by the Education Society.

2. Contributions in money and clothing, amounting to several hundred dollars annually, are distributed among those who need.

3. There are funds specially devoted to students subjected to the expenses of sickness.

4. Members of the Senior Class can generally increase their income by preaching during the Spring vacation and the Summer term.

GENERAL REMARKS.

The Seminary, while it enjoys the advantages of rural quiet, is yet within two or three miles of several populous manufacturing villages in Andover, within four miles of Lawrence, ten of Lowell, Bradford, and Haverhill, fifteen of Salem, and twenty of Boston, Charlestown, Roxbury, Cambridge, etc. Being thus within an hour's distance by railroad from the most flourishing cities and towns of eastern Massachusetts, it offers many facilities for agreeable exercise.

The General Policy of this Institution is established by a long and successful experience. The guardianship exercised over its members, aims at promoting a combination of thoroughness in mental discipline, and of large acquisitions, with a thoughtful piety.

This object its friends believe to be pre-eminently favored by its rural situation in the midst of the most densely peopled section of the country.

Form of a Bequest to the Treasury of the Seminary.

"I give and bequeath to the Trustees of Phillips Academy, at Andover, Mass, the sum of_____dollars, in trust; the principal of said sum to be safely invested by them, and the interest thereof appropriated under their direction, for the use of the Theological Seminary under their care."

APPENDIX.

CONDITIONS OF MEMBERSHIP.

The Seminary is open for the admission of Protestants of all denominations.

Every applicant for the privileges of the Seminary must, previously to his admission, present to the Faculty satisfactory testimonials respecting his Christian character, his regular membership in a Church of Christ, his possession of good natural talents, and his having received a complete collegiate education, or its equivalent so far as concerns preparation for theological studies. Exception is made in some cases to the requirement of formal connection with a Church, and the applicant is, in such case, required to subscribe a declaration of his belief in the Christian religion.

Candidates for admission will be examined with reference to their personal piety, their object in pursuing theological studies, and their knowledge of the classic languages. If they have not received a collegiate diploma, they will be further examined in Mathematics, Logic, Rhetoric, Natural Philosophy, Astronomy, and Intellectual Philosophy.

In case of application for admission to an advanced standing, the candidate will be liable to an examination also in all the studies which have been pursued by the class with which he wishes to be connected.

All candidates for admission are required to express their purpose to complete, at some place, three full years of theological study, unless prevented by some unforeseen and unavoidable necessity.

Admission to the Class of Resident Licentiates is granted only to those who make application for it to the Faculty, and who have honorably completed a course of three years of professional study at a Theological Seminary, or have otherwise obtained the equivalent of such a course. Exception to this rule is made in rare cases, in which persons having in view the missionary service, or some other peculiar ministerial duty, have not been able to pursue a regular course of theological discipline.

TERMS AND VACATIONS.

This Institution is designed to give the most thorough theological culture that can be obtained by a course of three years' study.

To effect this object, it is deemed essential that nine full months be devoted to study in each year, and that this period be so divided by suitable vacations as to secure to the studies of the Course those portions of the year which are most favorable to mental vigor.

Accordingly, the Anniversary is held on the first Thursday in August. The first Term commences six weeks after the Anniversary, and continues till six weeks before the first Thursday in May. The second Term commences on the first Thursday in May, and continues till the Anniversary.

The Lectures to all the classes begin promptly: it is therefore important that all the students should be present at the beginning of the year, in September. In the study of Hebrew, any considerable loss of time at this stage will subject the student to a serious disadvantage.

It is, furthermore, earnestly recommended that students, if possible, so arrange their plans that the whole of every term shall be devoted exclusively to their duties in the Seminary. Experience has proved that the labor of teaching, and of other similar avocations, during term-time is an evil. Students are advised to avoid it. Even the vacations should not be unnecessarily spent in exhausting pursuits.

COURSE OF INSTRUCTION.

The plan of study is designed to concentrate attention, as far as this is practicable, upon single departments in succession.

Accordingly, the first year of the Course is given mainly to the study of the Scriptures; the second, to that of Systematic Theology; and the third is necessarily divided between the departments of Ecclesiastical History and Sacred Rhetoric. Exegetical studies, however, are continued, in voluntary exercises, through the entire Course.

The following Schedule presents in detail the chief exercises of each department:

JUNIOR YEAR.

Professor Thayer. Lectures. Exegetical Theology: its several departments, together with books relating to the same. Language of the New Testament: its Origin; its Relations; its Characteristics. [Collection of the Sacred Books, i.e. the Canon of the New Testament]. The Gospels: their Nature; their Relations to each other; Theories of their Origin. Preservation of the New Testament: the Written Text; Textual Criticism; the Printed Text. Interpretation of the New Testament: — comprising general Remarks upon Hermeneutics; the study of Greek from the Gospels, with the use of Robinson's Harmony; and exegetical Essays by the class.

Professor Mead. Hebrew Grammar (Rödiger's Gesenius'); Recitations of select portions of the Pentateuch in Hebrew, with Discussions on the topics to which they relate; Recitations of portions of the Psalms in Hebrew, including the principal Messianic Psalms; Discussions respecting the principles of Messianic Prophecy, the nature of the Prophetic Imprecation, the doctrine of Divine Retribution as developed in the Old Testament, and other topics connected with the Interpretation of the Psalms.

Lectures on the Canon of the Old Testament. Essays by the class.

SECOND TERM.

PROFESSOR THAYER. Lectures. The Dissemination of the New Testament, i.e. some account of Translations.

Greek from the Epistles. Essays by the class.

PROFESSOR MEAD. Selections from the Prophetic Books, with accompanying Lectures and Discussions. Essays by the class.

MIDDLE YEAR.

FIRST TERM.

PROFESSOR PARK. Lectures. The Existence and Attributes of God; Pantheism; the Immortality of the Soul; Divine Authority and Inspiration of the Bible; the Trinity; Purposes of God — Election; Natural and Moral Government of God; the Conscience; the Will; Nature of Holiness and Sin; the Permission of Sin; Total Depravity; Natural State of Man; the Apostasy.

SECOND TERM.

PROFESSOR PARK. Lectures. The Atonement; Regeneration; Sanctification — the Christian Virtues, Various Theories of Christian Perfection, Perseverance of the Saints; Justification by Faith; Eschatology — the Resurrection, Judgment, Future Punishment; Positive Institutions — the Church, the Ministry; Sacraments — Baptism, the Lord's Supper.

The Lectures are interspersed with evening discussions, and with frequent examinations of the Class, on Ethical and Theological topics; also with voluntary exercises on those branches of Mental Philosophy which have a special relation to theology; also with written Theses of the students.

SENIOR YEAR.

FIRST TERM.

Professor Phelps. Lectures. First Course. — General Rhetoric: Province of Rhetoric; History of the Science; Alliance with other Sciences; Relation to Preaching; The Rhetorical and the Scientific forms of Truth.

Second Course. — Sources of Rhetorical Science: Study of Men; Scholastic abuses of the Pulpit; Study of Models in Literature, its Objects, its Subjects, its Methods; Relative Importance of National Literatures; Study of Professional Literature; the Scriptures as Literary Models; the Scriptural and the Theological Forms of Truth; Methods of Study of English Literature; Representatives of the English Pulpit; Study of Rhetorical Treatises.

Third Course. — Homiletics; Generic Idea of a Sermon; Classification of Sermons; Analysis of a Sermon; Construction, Composition, and Delivery of a Sermon; Expository Preaching; Preaching of Doctrines; Causes of Failure in Applications of Truth.

Exercises in Criticism. Sermons and Plans of Sermons by the Class, criticised in private.

Professor Smyth. Lectures. Introduction to Church History: Idea of History; of the Church — its Principle, Purpose, Visibility, Condition in the World, Law of Growth; Definition of Church History; Scope of the Department; Relation to other branches of Theological Science; Definition and Classification of the Sources; Chronological Divisions; Value of Church History to the Theologian and Preacher; Method of Study. History of Christian Doctrine to the Reformation: History of Apologies; of the Sources of Christian Knowledge; of Special Doctrines — General Doctrine of the Divine Existence and Nature; Doctrine of the Trinity; of Man; of the Person of Christ; of the Atonement; of Faith; [of the Sacraments and the Church; of Eschatology].

Recitations are heard from Guericke's Manual, with supplementary reference to Neander's General History, upon the Topics of the Spread of Christianity; Church Polity; Christian Life and Worship; Early Heresies and Sects; Principal Church Teachers and Theological Schools.

SECOND TERM.

Professor Phelps. Lectures. English Style — Theory of Style; Criticism of Qualities of Style; Means of forming Style; Provincialisms; Theological Dialect; History of English Style.

Exercises in Criticism. Sermons and Plans of Sermons by the Class, criticised in private.

Professor Smyth. Lectures. History of Doctrines continued; [History of Symbols]; History of the Congregational Polity. Pastoral Theology.

EXAMINATIONS.

At the close of each term the students are publicly examined by their respective instructors, before a Board of Examiners, on the studies of the term. The first examination of this year will begin on Tuesday, March 17, and occupy three days. The second will begin on Monday, Aug. 3, and occupy two days. The Anniversary Exercises will take place on the two following days, Aug 5 and Aug. 6.

SUPPLEMENTARY LECTURES.

In addition to the regular course of instruction, special courses of lectures are delivered by eminent clergymen, on the following subjects: Foreign Missions, Home Missions, Revivals of Religion, Popular Infidelity, and Congregationalism. A Lecturer on Intellectual Philosophy has also been appointed.

Special instruction is also given, in public and private lessons, by a Professor of Elocution during the Second Term.

SPECIAL COURSE OF INSTRUCTION.

For the benefit of those who, for particular reasons, are unable to pursue the regular course of study, an endowment has recently been made for the founding of a Professorship of a Special Course of instruction. The Professor on this foundation will direct the studies of all who are admitted to this course. Public notice will be given when the arrangements are completed, which are needed in order to make the provisions of the endowment fully available.

SOCIETIES.

The Porter Rhetorical Society meets weekly for Literary Criticism, Discussions, and Orations. Once each month this Society holds a public meeting, which is attended by the citizens of the place.

The Society of Inquiry is specially designed for the Study of Missions. It holds bi-weekly meetings, whose exercises are enriched by correspondence with those of the Alumni of the Seminary who are in the Missionary service.

The two Societies unite at the close of the year in a public Anniversary Exercise, at which Addresses are delivered by members of the Societies.

LIBRARY.

The Library of the Seminary, lately removed to Brechin Hall, erected for it by the munificence of the Messieurs John Smith, Peter Smith, and John Dove, of Andover, has been recently enriched by the purchase of the library of the late Dr. Niedner, Professor of Church History in the University of Berlin, and now numbers more than 30,000 volumes. It is opened daily for the inspection and drawing of books.

The Library is annually increased by the income of funds appropriated to this object.

EXPENSES AND BENEFICIARY AID.

EXPENSES.

No expense is incurred for instruction, and none by undergraduates for rooms in the public buildings, except three dollars a year for the care of rooms and beds, and for repair of buildings.

Each student also pays three dollars a year for the use of the Library, and five dollars a year for the care, warming, and lighting of lecture-rooms and the chapel, for the ringing of the bell, and for other incidental expenses.

Resident Licentiates pay three dollars a year for the use of the Library.

The rooms in the Seminary are supplied with beds, bedding, and some other furniture. The occupants provide stoves and such additional furniture as their habits may require. The average expense for fuel and lights, if a room has two occupants, is about twenty-five dollars a year.

Board can be obtained at the Seminary Club for the price of the raw material. The weekly expense was last year about three dollars. In private families the price is about five dollars.

Washing is done for sixty cents the dozen pieces.

BENEFICIARY AID.

To those whose pecuniary necessities require it, one hundred dollars a year are given from the funds of the Seminary. Applicants for this aid are required to present certificates, signed by three responsible persons, testifying to their indigent circumstances. No student can receive charitable assistance the first year who is not examined and approved within the first five weeks of the year.

Beneficiaries of the American Education Society receive, in addition, such aid as the funds of the society may afford. The regular appropriations amount now to one hundred dollars annually. In view of the increased cost of living, a special gratuity of from five to ten dollars a quarter is also now given.

Still further assistance has been furnished in money and clothing, by individuals in the neighboring cities and villages, to such as have needed this aid. Contributions valued at several hundred dollars were thus appropriated during the last year.

A society of ladies exists, in connection with the Seminary, whose funds are specially devoted to the relief of students who are subjected to the expenses of sickness.

Members of the Senior Class are also able, generally, to add to their pecuniary resources by preaching in vacant pulpits after the first of January.

4. Members of the Senior Class can generally increase their income by preaching after the first of January.

GENERAL REMARKS.

The Seminary, while it enjoys the advantages of rural quiet, is yet within two or three miles of several populous manufacturing villages in Andover, within four miles of Lawrence, ten of Lowell, Bradford, and Haverhill, fifteen of Salem, and twenty of Boston, Charlestown, Roxbury, Cambridge, etc. Being thus within an hour's distance by railroad from the most flourishing cities and towns of eastern Massachusetts, it offers many facilities for agreeable exercise.

A well-furnished Gymnasium is open for the free use of the students.

The General Policy of this Institution is established by a long and successful experience. The guardianship exercised over its members, aims at promoting a combination of thoroughness in mental discipline, and of large acquisitions, with a thoughtful piety.

This object its friends believe to be pre-eminently favored by its rural situation in the midst of the most densely peopled section of the country.

Form of a Bequest to the Treasury of the Seminary.

"I give and bequeath to the Trustees of Phillips Academy, at Andover, Mass., the sum of_____dollars, in trust; the principal of said sum to be safely invested by them, and the interest thereof appropriated under their direction, for the use of the Theological Seminary under their care."

APPENDIX.

CONDITIONS OF MEMBERSHIP.

The Seminary is open for the admission of Protestants of all denominations.

Every applicant for the privileges of the Seminary must, previously to his admission, present to the Faculty satisfactory testimonials respecting his Christian character, his regular membership in a Church of Christ, his possession of good natural talents, and his having received a complete collegiate education, or its equivalent so far as concerns preparation for theological studies. Exception is made in some cases to the requirement of formal connection with a Church, and the applicant is, in such case, required to subscribe a declaration of his belief in the Christian religion.

Candidates for admission will be examined with reference to their personal piety, their object in pursuing theological studies, and their knowledge of the classic languages. If they have not received a collegiate diploma, they will be further examined in Mathematics, Logic, Rhetoric, Natural Philosophy, Astronomy, and Intellectual Philosophy.

In case of application for admission to an advanced standing, the candidate will be liable to an examination also in all the studies which have been pursued by the class with which he wishes to be connected.

All candidates for admission are required to express their purpose to complete, at some place, three full years of theological study, unless prevented by some unforeseen and unavoidable necessity.

Admission to the Class of Resident Licentiates is granted only to those who make application for it to the Faculty, and who have honorably completed a course of three years of professional study at a Theological Seminary, or have otherwise obtained the equivalent of such a course.

The Special Course is designed for such students as in the judgment of the Faculty are precluded from the regular course of study; and applicants are admitted by the concurrent action of the Faculty and the Trustees.

TERMS AND VACATIONS.

This Institution is designed to give the most thorough theological culture that can be obtained by a course of three years' study.

To effect this object it is deemed essential that nine full months be devoted to study in each year, and that this period be so divided by suitable vacations as to secure to the studies of the Course those portions of the year which are most favorable to mental vigor.

Accordingly, the first term of the present Seminary Year will end on Thursday, March 25th, followed by a vacation of four weeks. The second term will commence on Thursday, April 22d, and continue till the Anniversary, Thursday, July 22d, to be followed by a vacation of eight weeks. The first term of the next Seminary Year will begin on Thursday, September 16th.

The Lectures to all the classes begin promptly: it is therefore important that all the students should be present at the beginning of the year, in September. In the study of Hebrew, any considerable loss of time at this stage will subject the student to a serious disadvantage.

It is, furthermore, earnestly recommended that students, if possible, so arrange their plans that the whole of every term shall be devoted exclusively to their duties in the Seminary. Experience has proved that the labor of teaching, and of other similar avocations, during term-time, is an evil. Students are advised to avoid it. Even the vacations should not be unnecessarily spent in exhausting pursuits.

COURSE OF INSTRUCTION.

The plan of study is designed to concentrate attention, as far as this is practicable, upon single departments in succession.

Accordingly, the first year of the Course is given mainly to the study of the Scriptures; the second, to that of Systematic Theology; and the third is necessarily divided between the departments of Ecclesiastical History and Sacred Rhetoric. Exegetical studies, however, are continued, in voluntary exercises, through the entire Course.

The following Schedule presents in detail the chief exercises of each department:

JUNIOR YEAR.

FIRST TERM.

Professor Thayer. Lectures. Exegetical Theology: its several departments, together with books relating to the same. Language of the New Testament: its Origin; its Relations; its Characteristics. [Collection of the Sacred Books, i.e. the Canon of the New Testament]. The Gospels: their general Nature; Circumstances of their Composition; their Relations to each other; Origin of the First Three. Preservation of the New Testament: the Written Text; Textual Criticism; the Printed Text. Interpretation of the New Testament: — comprising general Remarks upon Hermeneutics; the study of Greek from the Gospels, with the use of Robinson's Harmony; and exegetical Essays by the class.

Professor Mead. Hebrew Grammar (Rödiger's Gesenius'); Recitations of select portions of the Old Testament in Hebrew, with Discussions on the topics to which they relate.

Lectures on the Text and the Canon of the Old Testament. Essays by the class.

SECOND TERM.

Professor Thayer. Lectures. The Dissemination of the New Testament, i.e. some account of Translations.

Greek from the Epistles. Essays by the class.

Professor Mead. Selections from the Prophetic Books, with accompanying Discussions.

Lectures on the Messianic Prophecies. Essays by the class.

MIDDLE YEAR.

FIRST TERM.

Professor Park. Lectures. The Existence and Attributes of God; Pantheism; the Immortality of the Soul; Divine Authority and Inspiration of the Bible; the Trinity; Purposes of God — Election; Natural and Moral Government of God; the Conscience; the Will; Nature of Holiness and Sin; the Permission of Sin; Total Depravity; Natural State of Man; the Apostasy.

SECOND TERM.

Professor Park. Lectures. The Atonement; Regeneration; Sanctification — the Christian Virtues, Various Theories of Christian Perfection, Perseverance of the Saints; Justification by Faith; Eschatology — the Resurrection, Judgment, Future Punishment; Positive Institutions — the Church, the Ministry; Sacraments — Baptism, the Lord's Supper.

The Lectures are interspersed with evening discussions, and with frequent examinations of the Class, on Ethical and Theological topics; also with voluntary exercises on those branches of Mental Philosophy which have a special relation to theology; also with written Theses of the students.

SENIOR YEAR.

FIRST TERM.

Professor Phelps. Lectures. — General Rhetoric: Province of Rhetoric; History of the Science; Alliance with other Sciences; Relation to Preaching; The Rhetorical and the Scientific forms of Truth.

Sources of Rhetorical Science: Study of Men; Scholastic abuses of the Pulpit; Study of Models in Literature, its Objects, its Subjects, its Methods; Relative Importance of National Literatures; Study of Professional Literature; the Scriptures as Literary Models; the Scriptural and the Theological Forms of Truth; Methods of Study of English Literature; Representatives of the English Pulpit; Study of Rhetorical Treatises.

Homiletics: Generic Idea of a Sermon; Classification of Sermons; Analysis of a Sermon; Construction, Composition, and Delivery of a Sermon; Expository Preaching; Preaching of Doctrines; Causes of Failure in Applications of Truth.

Exercises in Criticism. Sermons and Plans of Sermons by the Class, criticised in private.

Professor Smyth. Lectures. Introduction to Church History: Idea of History; of the Church — its Principle, Purpose, Visibility, Condition in the World, Law of Growth; Definition of Church History; Scope of the Department; Relation to other branches of Theological Science; Definition and Classification of the Sources; Chronological Divisions; Value of Church History to the Theologian and Preacher; Method of Study. History of Christian Doctrine to the Reformation: History of Apologies; of the Sources of Christian Knowledge; of Special Doctrines — General Doctrine of the Divine Existence and Nature; Doctrine of the Trinity; of Man; of the Person of Christ; of the Atonement; of Faith; [of the Sacraments and the Church; of Eschatology].

Recitations are heard from Guericke's Manual, with supplementary reference to Neander's General History, upon the Topics of the Spread of Christianity; Church Polity; Christian Life and Worship; Early Heresies and Sects; Principal Church Teachers and Theological Schools.

SECOND TERM.

Professor Phelps. Lectures. English Style — Theory of Style; Criticism of Qualities of Style; Means of forming Style; Provincialisms; Theological Dialect; History of English Style.

Exercises in Criticism. Sermons and Plans of Sermons by the Class, criticised in private.

Professor Smyth. Lectures. History of Doctrines continued; [History of Symbols]; History of the Congregational Polity.

Professor Taylor. Lectures. Pastoral Theology.

Professor Churchill. Lectures. Instruction in Vocal Culture, Reading, and the delivery of Sermons and Anniversary Essays.

SPECIAL COURSE.

All Students in this Course have access to such Lectures in the Regular Course, under the direction of the Smith Professor, as they are fitted to attend; and also pursue through their first year a series of Historical Studies in the English version of the Scriptures. Topics: The Primeval, Patriarchal, Theocratic, Prophetic, Messianic, and Apostolic Epochs, — with special reference to the origin, contents, and connection of the several inspired books, and the progress of doctrine in the Old Testament and the New.

SUPPLEMENTARY LECTURES.

In addition to the regular course of instruction, special courses of lectures are delivered by eminent clergymen, on the following subjects: Foreign Missions, Home Missions, Revivals of Religion, Popular Infidelity, Congregationalism, and Intellectual Philosophy.

EXAMINATIONS.

At the close of each term the students are publicly examined by their respective instructors, before a Board of Examiners, on the studies of the term. The first examination of this year will begin on Monday afternoon, March 22d, and occupy three and a half days. The second will begin on Monday, July 19th, and occupy two days. The Anniversary Exercises will take place on the two following days, July 21st and July 22d.

SOCIETIES.

The Porter Rhetorical Society meets weekly for Literary Criticism, Discussions, and Orations. Once each month this Society holds a public meeting, which is attended by the citizens of the place.

The Society of Inquiry is specially designed for the Study of Missions. It holds bi-weekly meetings, whose exercises are enriched by correspondence with those of the Alumni of the Seminary who are in the Missionary service.

The two Societies unite at the close of the year in a public Anniversary Exercise, at which Addresses are delivered by members of the Societies.

LIBRARY.

The Library of the Seminary, lately removed to Brechin Hall, erected for it by the munificence of the Messieurs John Smith, Peter Smith, and John Dove, of Andover, has been recently enriched by the purchase of the library of the late Dr. Niedner, Professor of Church History in the University of Berlin, and now numbers nearly 30,000 volumes. It is opened daily for the inspection and drawing of books.

The Library is annually increased by the income of funds appropriated to this object.

EXPENSES AND BENEFICIARY AID.

EXPENSES.

No expense is incurred for instruction, and none by undergraduates for rooms in the public buildings, except three dollars a year for the care of rooms and beds, and the use of furniture.

Each student also pays three dollars a year for the use of the Library, and five dollars a year for the care, warming, and lighting of lecture-rooms and the chapel, for the ringing of the bell, and for other incidental expenses; and three dollars a year for the use of the Gymnasium, if he shall choose this exercise, under the direction of an instructor.

Resident Licentiates pay three dollars a year for the use of the Library.

The rooms in the Seminary are supplied with beds, bedding, and some other furniture. The occupants provide stoves and such additional furniture as their habits may require. The average expense for fuel and lights, if a room has two occupants, is about twenty-five dollars a year.

To aid in providing board the Trustees have appropriated and furnished a convenient Club-house near the Seminary, and assume the expense of a Matron for the same; members of the club being charged only the actual cost of their board, beyond this. From experience it is expected that the cost will not exceed $3.50 per week. In private families the price is about five dollars.

Washing is done for sixty cents the dozen pieces.

BENEFICIARY AID.

To those whose pecuniary necessities require it, one hundred dollars a year are given from the funds of the Seminary. Applicants for this aid are required to present certificates, signed by three responsible persons, testifying to their indigent circumstances. No student can receive charitable assistance the first year who is not examined and approved within the first five weeks of the year; nor can a student be absent more than five weeks of term time, unless it be for sickness, without forfeiting his aid for the year from the Seminary funds.

Beneficiaries of the American Education Society receive, in addition, such aid as the funds of the society may afford. The regular appropriations amount now to one hundred dollars annually.

Still further assistance has been furnished in money and clothing, by individuals in the neighboring cities and villages, to such as have needed this aid. Contributions valued at several hundred dollars were thus appropriated during the last year.

A society of ladies exists, in connection with the Seminary, whose funds are specially devoted to the relief of students who are subjected to the expenses of sickness.

Members of the Senior Class are also able, generally, to add to their pecuniary resources by preaching in vacant pulpits after the first of January.

Although students in the Special Course cannot receive aid from beneficiary endowments designed for students in the full course, the Trustees aim to extend to them every facility, and provide for them every aid in their power; and they indulge the hope that none will be debarred from this course sf study for want of pecuniary aid. For the present, the pledges of friends authorize the Trustees to pay needy students in this department $100, each, yearly; and a Club-house has also been opened where they can procure board at its net cost.

5. Special arrangement to diminish the cost of board.

GENERAL REMARKS.

The Seminary, while it enjoys the advantages of rural quiet, is yet within two or three miles of several populous manufacturing villages in Andover, within four miles of Lawrence, ten of Lowell, Bradford, and Haverhill, fifteen of Salem, and twenty of Boston, Charlestown, Cambridge, etc. Being thus within an hour's distance by railroad from the most flourishing cities and towns of Eastern Massachusetts, it offers many facilities for agreeable exercise.

A well-furnished Gymnasium is open for the use of the students.

The General Policy of this Institution is established by a long and successful experience. The guardianship exercised over its members, aims at promoting a combination of thoroughness in mental discipline, and of large acquisitions, with a thoughtful piety.

This object its friends believe to be pre-eminently favored by its rural situation in the midst of the most densely peopled section of the country.

Form of a Bequest to the Treasury of the Seminary.

"I give and bequeath to the Trustees of Phillips Academy, at Andover, Mass., the sum of_____dollars, in trust; the principal of said sum to be safely invested by them, and the interest thereof appropriated under their direction, for the use of the Theological Seminary under their care."

APPENDIX.

CONDITIONS OF MEMBERSHIP.

The Seminary is open for the admission of Protestants of all denominations.

Every applicant for the privileges of the Seminary must, previously to his admission, present to the Faculty satisfactory testimonials respecting his Christian character, his regular membership in a Church of Christ, his possession of good natural talents, and his having received a complete collegiate education, or its equivalent so far as concerns preparation for theological studies. Exception is made in some cases to the requirement of formal connection with a Church, and the applicant is, in such case, required to subscribe a declaration of his belief in the Christian religion.

Candidates for admission will be examined with reference to their personal piety, their object in pursuing theological studies, and their knowledge of the classic languages. If they have not received a collegiate diploma, they will be further examined in Mathematics, Logic, Rhetoric, Natural Philosophy, Astronomy, and Intellectual Philosophy.

In case of application for admission to an advanced standing, the candidate will be liable to an examination also in all the studies which have been pursued by the class with which he wishes to be connected.

All candidates for admission are required to express their purpose to complete, at some place, three full years of theological study, unless prevented by some unforeseen and unavoidable necessity.

Admission to the Class of Resident Licentiates is granted only to those who make application for it to the Faculty, and who have honorably completed a course of three years of professional study at a Theological Seminary, or have otherwise obtained the equivalent of such a course.

The Special Course is designed for such students as in the judgment of the Faculty are precluded from the regular course of study; and applicants are admitted by the concurrent action of the Faculty and the Trustees.

TERMS AND VACATIONS.

This Institution is designed to give the most thorough theological culture that can be obtained by a course of three years' study.

To effect this object it is deemed essential that nine full months be devoted to study in each year, and that this period be so divided by suitable vacations as to secure to the studies of the Course those portions of the year which are most favorable to mental vigor.

Accordingly, the first term of the present Seminary Year will end on Thursday, March 24th, followed by a vacation of two weeks. The second term will, for special reasons, commence on Thursday, April 7th, and continue till the Anniversary, which will be held this year on Thursday, July 7th. The first term of the next Seminary Year will begin on Thursday, September 15th.

The Lectures to all the classes begin promptly: it is therefore important that all the students should be present at the beginning of the year, in September. In the study of Hebrew, any considerable loss of time at this stage will subject the student to a serious disadvantage.

It is, furthermore, earnestly recommended that students, if possible, so arrange their plans that the whole of every term shall be devoted exclusively to their duties in the Seminary. Experience has proved that the labor of teaching, and of other similar avocations, during term-time, is an evil. Students are advised to avoid it. Even the vacations should not be unnecessarily spent in exhausting pursuits.

COURSE OF INSTRUCTION.

The plan of study is designed to concentrate attention, as far as practicable, upon single departments in succession.

Accordingly, the first year of the Course is given mainly to the study of the Scriptures; the second, to that of Systematic Theology; and the third is necessarily divided between the departments of Ecclesiastical History and Sacred Rhetoric. Exegetical studies, however, are continued, in voluntary exercises, through the entire Course.

The following Schedule presents in detail the chief exercises of each department:

JUNIOR YEAR.

FIRST TERM.

Professor Thayer. Lectures. Exegetical Theology: its several departments, together with books relating to the same. Language of the New Testament: its Origin; its Relations; its Characteristics. [Collection of the Sacred Books, i.e. the Canon of the New Testament]. The Gospels: their general Nature; Circumstances of their Composition; their Relations to each other; Origin of the First Three. Preservation of the New Testament: the Written Text; Textual Criticism; the Printed Text. Interpretation of the New Testament: — comprising general Remarks upon Hermeneutics; the study of Greek from the Gospels, with the use of Robinson's Harmony; and exegetical Essays by the class.

Professor Mead. Hebrew Grammar (Rödiger's Gesenius'); Recitations of select portions of the Old Testament in Hebrew, with Discussions on the topics to which they relate.

Lectures on the Text and the Canon of the Old Testament. Essays by the class.

SECOND TERM.

PROFESSOR THAYER. Lectures. The Dissemination of the New Testament, i.e. some account of Translations, particularly the English.

Greek from the Epistles. Essays by the class.

PROFESSOR MEAD. Selections from the Prophetic Books, with accompanying Discussions.

Lectures on the Messianic Prophecies. Essays by the class.

MIDDLE YEAR.

FIRST TERM.

PROFESSOR PARK. Lectures. The Existence and Attributes of God; Pantheism; the Immortality of the Soul; Divine Authority and Inspiration of the Bible; the Trinity; Purposes of God — Election; Natural and Moral Government of God; the Conscience; the Will; Nature of Holiness and Sin; the Permission of Sin; Total Depravity; Natural State of Man; the Apostasy.

SECOND TERM.

PROFESSOR PARK. Lectures. The Atonement; Regeneration; Sanctification — the Christian Virtues, Various Theories of Christian Perfection, Perseverance of the Saints; Justification by Faith; Eschatology — the Resurrection, Judgment, Future Punishment; Positive Institutions — the Church, the Ministry; Sacraments — Baptism, the Lord's Supper.

The Lectures are interspersed with evening discussions, and with frequent examinations of the Class, on Ethical and Theological topics; also with voluntary exercises on those branches of Mental Philosophy which have a special relation to theology; also with written Theses of the students.

SENIOR YEAR.

FIRST TERM.

Professor Phelps. Lectures. — General Rhetoric: Province of Rhetoric; History of the Science; Alliance with other Sciences; Relation to Preaching; The Rhetorical and the Scientific forms of Truth.

Sources of Rhetorical Science: Study of Men; Scholastic abuses of the Pulpit; Study of Models in Literature, its Objects, its Subjects, its Methods; Relative Importance of National Literatures; Study of Professional Literature; the Scriptures as Literary Models; the Scriptural and the Theological Forms of Truth; Methods of Study of English Literature; Representatives of the English Pulpit; Study of Rhetorical Treatises.

Homiletics: Generic Idea of a Sermon; Classification of Sermons; Analysis of a Sermon; Construction, Composition, and Delivery of a Sermon; Expository Preaching; Preaching of Doctrines; Causes of Failure in Applications of Truth.

Exercises in Criticism. Sermons and Plans of Sermons by the Class, criticised in private.

Professor Smyth. Lectures. Introduction to Church History: Idea of History; of the Church — its Principle, Purpose, Visibility, Condition in the World, Law of Growth; Definition of Church History; Scope of the Department; Relation to other branches of Theological Science; Definition and Classification of the Sources; Chronological Divisions; Value of Church History to the Theologian and Preacher; Method of Study. History of Christian Doctrine to the Reformation: History of Apologies; of the Sources of Christian Knowledge; of Special Doctrines — General Doctrine of the Divine Existence and Nature; Doctrine of the Trinity; of Man; of the Person of Christ; of the Atonement; of Faith; [of the Sacraments and the Church; of Eschatology].

Recitations are heard from Guericke's Manual, with supplementary reference to Neander's General History, upon the Topics of the Spread of Christianity; Church Polity; Christian Life and Worship; Early Heresies and Sects; Principal Church Teachers and Theological Schools.

SECOND TERM.

Professor Phelps. Lectures. English Style — Theory of Style; Criticism of Qualities of Style; Means of forming Style; Provincialisms; Theological Dialect; History of English Style.

Exercises in Criticism. Sermons and Plans of Sermons by the Class, criticised in private.

Professor Smyth. Lectures. History of Doctrines continued; [History of Symbols]; History of the Congregational Polity.

Professor Taylor. Lectures. Pastoral Theology.

SPECIAL COURSE.

All Students in this Course have access to such Lectures in the Regular Course, under the direction of the Smith Professor, as they are fitted to attend; and also pursue through their first year a series of Historical Studies in the English version of the Scriptures. Topics: The Primeval, Patriarchal, Theocratic, Prophetic, Messianic, and Apostolic Epochs, — with special reference to the origin, contents, and connection of the several inspired books, and the progress of doctrine in the Old Testament and the New.

SUPPLEMENTARY LECTURES.

In addition to the regular course of instruction, special courses of lectures are delivered by eminent clergymen, on the following subjects: Foreign Missions, Home Missions, Revivals of Religion, Popular Infidelity, Congregationalism, and Intellectual Philosophy.

EXAMINATIONS.

At the close of each term the students are publicly examined by their respective instructors, before a Board of Examiners, on the studies of the term. The first examination of this year will begin on Monday afternoon, March 21st. The second will begin on Monday, July 4th. The Anniversary Exercises will take place July 6th and July 7th.

SOCIETIES.

The Porter Rhetorical Society meets bi-weekly for Literary Criticism, Discussions, and Orations. Once each month this Society holds a public meeting, which is attended by the citizens of the place.

The Society of Inquiry is specially designed for the Study of Missions. It holds bi-weekly meetings, whose exercises are enriched by correspondence with those of the Alumni of the Seminary who are in the Missionary service.

The two Societies unite at the close of the year in a public Anniversary Exercise, at which Addresses are delivered by members of the Societies.

LIBRARY.

The Library of the Seminary, lately removed to Brechin Hall, erected for it by the munificence of the Messieurs John Smith, Peter Smith, and John Dove, of Andover, has been recently enriched by the purchase of the library of the late Dr. Niedner, Professor of Church History in the University of Berlin, and now numbers nearly 30,000 volumes. It is opened daily for the examination and drawing of books.

The Library is annually increased by the income of funds appropriated to this object.

EXPENSES AND BENEFICIARY AID.

EXPENSES.

No expense is incurred for instruction, and none by undergraduates for rooms in the public buildings, except three dollars a year for the care of rooms and beds, and the use of furniture.

Each student also pays three dollars a year for the use of the Library, and five dollars a year for the care, warming, and lighting of lecture-rooms and the chapel, for the ringing of the bell, and for other incidental expenses; and three dollars a year for the use of the Gymnasium, if he shall choose this exercise; gratuitous instruction in gymnastics is provided for those who may desire it.

Resident Licentiates pay three dollars a year for the use of the Library.

The rooms in the Seminary are supplied with beds, bedding, and some other furniture. The occupants provide stoves and such additional furniture as their habits may require. The average expense for fuel and lights, if a room has two occupants, is about twenty-five dollars a year.

To aid in providing board the Trustees have appropriated and furnished a convenient Club-house near the Seminary, and assume the expense of a Matron for the same; members of the club being charged only the actual cost of their board, beyond this. From experience it is expected that the cost will not exceed $3.50 per week. In private families the price is about five dollars.

Washing is done for sixty cents the dozen pieces.

BENEFICIARY AID.

To those whose pecuniary necessities require it, one hundred dollars a year are given from the funds of the Seminary. Applicants for this aid are required to present certificates, signed by three responsible persons, testifying to their indigent circumstances. No student can receive charitable assistance the first year who is not examined and approved within the first five weeks of the year; nor can a student be absent more than five weeks of term time, unless it be on account of sickness, without forfeiting his aid for the year from the Seminary funds.

Beneficiaries of the American Education Society receive, in addition, such aid as the funds of the society may afford. The appropriations usually amount to one hundred dollars annually.

Still further assistance has been furnished in money and clothing, by individuals in the neighboring cities and villages, to such as have needed this aid. Contributions valued at several hundred dollars were thus appropriated during the last year.

A society of ladies exists, in connection with the Seminary, whose funds are specially devoted to the relief of students who are subjected to the expenses of sickness.

Members of the Senior Class are also able, generally, to add to their pecuniary resources by preaching in vacant pulpits a portion of the time during the year.

Although students in the Special Course cannot receive aid from beneficiary endowments designed for students in the full course, the Trustees aim to extend to them every facility, and provide for them every aid in their power; and they indulge the hope that none will be debarred from this course of study for want of pecuniary aid. For the present, the pledges of friends authorize the Trustees to pay needy students in this department $100, each, yearly; and board can be had at the same rates with the other students.

GENERAL REMARKS.

The Seminary, while it enjoys the advantages of rural quiet, is yet within two or three miles of several populous manufacturing villages in Andover, within four miles of Lawrence, ten of Lowell, Bradford, and Haverhill, fifteen of Salem, and twenty of Boston, Charlestown, Cambridge, etc. Being thus within an hour's distance by railroad from the most flourishing cities and towns of Eastern Massachusetts, it offers many facilities for agreeable exercise.

A well-furnished Gymnasium is open for the use of the students.

The General Policy of this Institution is established by a long and successful experience. The guardianship exercised over its members, aims at promoting a combination of thoroughness in mental discipline, and of large acquisitions, with a thoughtful piety.

This object its friends believe to be pre-eminently favored by its rural situation in the midst of the most densely peopled section of the country.

Form of a Bequest to the Treasury of the Seminary.

"I give and bequeath to the Trustees of Phillips Academy, at Andover, Mass., the sum of_____dollars, in trust; the principal of said sum to be safely invested by them, and the interest thereof appropriated under their direction, for the use of the Theological Seminary under their care."

APPENDIX.

CONDITIONS OF MEMBERSHIP.

The Seminary is open for the admission of Protestants of all denominations.

Applicants for the privileges of the Seminary shall, previously to their admission, be examined by the Faculty respecting their Christian character, their regular membership in a church of Christ, their object in pursuing theological studies, and their possession of good natural talents and of a liberal education. Exception is made in some cases to the requirement of formal connection with a church, and of a complete collegiate education; but in such cases the candidate is required to subscribe a declaration of his belief in the Christian religion, and give evidence of such scholarship as will enable him successfully to pursue all the studies of the theological course.

In case of application for admission to an advanced standing, the candidate will be liable to an examination also in all the studies which have been pursued by the class with which he wishes to be connected.

All candidates for admission are required to express their purpose to complete, at some place, three full years of theological study, unless prevented by some unforeseen and unavoidable necessity.

Admission to the Class of Resident Licentiates is granted only to those who make application for it to the Faculty, and who have honorably completed a course of three years of professional study at a Theological Seminary, or have otherwise obtained the equivalent of such a course.

The Special Course is designed for such students as in the judgment of the Faculty are precluded from the regular course of study; and applicants are admitted by the concurrent action of the Faculty and the Trustees.

TERMS AND VACATIONS.

This Institution is designed to give the most thorough theological culture that can be obtained by a course of three years' study.

To effect this object it is deemed essential that nine full months be devoted to study in each year, and that this period be so divided by suitable vacations as to secure to the studies of the Course those portions of the year which are most favorable to mental vigor.

Accordingly, the first term of the present Seminary Year will end on Thursday, March 23d, followed by a vacation of three weeks. The second term will commence on Thursday, April 13th, and continue till the Anniversary, Thursday, June 29th, to be followed by a vacation of nine weeks. The first term of the next Seminary Year will begin on Thursday, August 31st.

The Lectures to all the classes begin promptly: it is therefore important that all the students should be present at the beginning of the Seminary year. In the study of Hebrew, any considerable loss of time at this stage will subject the student to a serious disadvantage.

It is, furthermore, earnestly recommended that students so arrange their plans that the whole of every term shall be devoted exclusively to their duties in the Seminary. Experience has proved that the labor of teaching, and of other similar avocations, during term-time, is an evil. Students are advised to avoid it. Even the vacations should not be unnecessarily spent in exhausting pursuits.

COURSE OF INSTRUCTION.

The plan of study is designed to concentrate attention, as far as practicable, upon single departments in succession.

Accordingly, the first year of the Course is given mainly to the study of the Scriptures; the second, to that of Systematic Theology; and the third is necessarily divided between the departments of Ecclesiastical History and Sacred Rhetoric. Exegetical studies, however, are continued, in voluntary exercises, through the entire Course.

The following Schedule presents in detail the chief exercises of each department:

JUNIOR YEAR.

FIRST TERM.

Professor Thayer. Lectures. Exegetical Theology: its several departments, together with books relating to the same. Language of the New Testament: its Origin; its Relations; its Characteristics. [Collection of the Sacred Books, i.e. the Canon of the New Testament.] The Gospels: their general Nature; Circumstances of their Composition; their Relations to each other; Origin of the First Three. Preservation of the New Testament: the Written Text; Textual Criticism; the Printed Text. Interpretation of the New Testament: — comprising general Remarks upon Hermeneutics; the study of Greek from the Gospels, with the use of Robinson's Harmony; and exegetical Essays by the class.

Professor Mead. Hebrew Grammar (Rödiger's Gesenius's); Recitations of select portions of the Old Testament in Hebrew, with Discussions on the topics to which they relate.

Lectures on the Text and the Canon of the Old Testament. Essays by the class.

SECOND TERM.

Professor Thayer. Lectures. The Dissemination of the New Testament, i.e. some account of Translations, particularly the English.

Greek from the Epistles. Essays by the class.

Professor Mead. Selections from the Prophetic Books, with accompanying Discussions.

Lectures on the Messianic Prophecies. Essays by the class.

MIDDLE YEAR.

FIRST TERM.

Professor Park. Lectures. The Existence and Attributes of God; Pantheism; the Immortality of the Soul; Divine Authority and Inspiration of the Bible; the Trinity; Purposes of God — Election; Natural and Moral Government of God; the Conscience; the Will; Nature of Holiness and Sin; the Permission of Sin; Total Depravity; Natural State of Man; the Apostasy.

SECOND TERM.

Professor Park. Lectures. The Atonement; Regeneration; Sanctification — the Christian Virtues, Various Theories of Christian Perfection, Perseverance of the Saints; Justification by Faith; Eschatology — the Resurrection, Judgment, Future Punishment; Positive Institutions — the Church, the Ministry; Sacraments — Baptism, the Lord's Supper.

The Lectures are interspersed with evening discussions, and with frequent examinations of the Class, on Ethical and Theological topics; also with voluntary exercises on those branches of Mental Philosophy which have a special relation to theology; also with written Theses of the students.

SENIOR YEAR.

FIRST TERM.

Professor Phelps. Lectures. — General Rhetoric: Province of Rhetoric; History of the Science; Alliance with other Sciences; Relation to Preaching; The Rhetorical and the Scientific forms of Truth.

Sources of Rhetorical Science: Study of Men; Scholastic abuses of the Pulpit; Study of Models in Literature, its Objects, its Subjects, its Methods; Relative Importance of National Literatures; Study of Professional Literature; the Scriptures as Literary Models; the Scriptural and the Theological Forms of Truth; Methods of Study of English Literature; Representatives of the English Pulpit; Study of Rhetorical Treatises.

Homiletics: Generic Idea of a Sermon; Classification of Sermons; Analysis of a Sermon; Construction, Composition, and Delivery of a Sermon; Expository Preaching; Preaching of Doctrines; Causes of Failure in Applications of Truth.

Exercises in Criticism. Sermons and Plans of Sermons by the Class, criticised in private.

Professor Smyth. Lectures. Introduction to Church History: Idea of History; of the Church — its Principle, Purpose, Visibility, Condition in the World, Law of Growth; Definition of Church History; Scope of the Department; Relation to other branches of Theological Science; Definition and Classification of the Sources; Chronological Divisions; Value of Church History to the Theologian and Preacher; Method of Study. History of Christian Doctrine to the Reformation: History of Apologies; of the Sources of Christian Knowledge; of Special Doctrines — General Doctrine of the Divine Existence and Nature; Doctrine of the Trinity; of Man; of the Person of Christ; of the Atonement; of Faith; [of the Sacraments and the Church; of Eschatology].

Recitations are heard from Guericke's Manual, with supplementary reference to Neander's General History, upon the Topics of the Spread of Christianity; Church Polity; Christian Life and Worship; Early Heresies and Sects; Principal Church Teachers and Theological Schools.

SECOND TERM.

Professor Phelps. Lectures. English Style — Theory of Style; Criticism of Qualities of Style; Means of forming Style; Provincialisms; Theological Dialect; History of English Style.

Exercises in Criticism. Sermons and Plans of Sermons by the Class, criticised in private.

Professor Smyth. Lectures. History of Doctrines continued; [History of Symbols]; History of the Congregational Polity.

Professor Taylor. Lectures. Pastoral Theology.

Professor Churchill. Lectures. Instruction in Vocal Culture, Reading, and the delivery of Sermons and Anniversary Essays.

SPECIAL COURSE.

All Students in this Course have access to such Lectures in the Regular Course, under the direction of the Smith Professor, as they are fitted to attend; and also pursue through their first year a series of Historical Studies in the English version of the Scriptures. Topics: The Primeval, Patriarchal, Theocratic, Prophetic, Messianic, and Apostolic Epochs, — with special reference to the origin, contents, and connection of the several inspired books, and the progress of doctrine in the Old Testament and the New.

SUPPLEMENTARY LECTURES.

In addition to the regular course of instruction, special courses of lectures are delivered by eminent clergymen, on the following subjects: Foreign Missions, Home Missions, Revivals of Religion, Popular Infidelity, Congregationalism, and Intellectual Philosophy.

EXAMINATIONS.

At the close of each term the students are publicly examined by their respective instructors, before a Board of Examiners, on the studies of the term. The first examination of this year will begin on Monday afternoon, March 20th. The second will begin on Monday, June 26th. The Anniversary Exercises will take place June 28th and June 29th.

SOCIETIES.

The Porter Rhetorical Society meets bi-weekly for Literary Criticism, Discussions, and Orations. Once each month this Society holds a public meeting, which is attended by the citizens of the place.

The Society of Inquiry is specially designed for the Study of Missions. It holds bi-weekly meetings, whose exercises are enriched by correspondence with those of the Alumni of the Seminary who are in the Missionary service.

The two Societies unite at the close of the year in a public Anniversary Exercise, at which Addresses are delivered by members of the Societies.

LIBRARY.

The Library of the Seminary, lately removed to Brechin Hall, erected for it by the munificence of the Messieurs John Smith, Peter Smith, and John Dove, of Andover, has been recently enriched by the purchase of the library of the late Dr. Niedner, Professor of Church History in the University of Berlin, and now numbers about 30,000 volumes. It is opened daily for the examination and drawing of books.

The Library is annually increased by the income of funds appropriated to this object.

EXPENSES AND BENEFICIARY AID.

EXPENSES.

No expense is incurred for instruction, and none by undergraduates for rooms in the public buildings, except three dollars a year for the care of rooms and beds, and the use of furniture.

Each student also pays three dollars a year for the use of the Library, and five dollars a year for the care, warming, and lighting of lecture-rooms and the chapel, for the ringing of the bell, and for other incidental expenses; and three dollars a year for the use of the Gymnasium, if he shall choose this exercise; gratuitous instruction in gymnastics is provided for those who may desire it.

Resident Licentiates pay three dollars a year for the use of the Library.

The rooms in the Seminary are supplied with beds, bedding, and some other furniture. The occupants provide stoves and such additional furniture as their habits may require. The average expense for fuel and lights, if a room has two occupants, is about twenty-five dollars a year.

To aid in providing board the Trustees have appropriated and furnished a convenient Club-house near the Seminary, and assume the expense of a Matron for the same; members of the club being charged only the actual cost of their board, beyond this. From experience it is expected that the cost will not exceed $3.50 per week. In private families the price is about five dollars.

Washing is done for sixty cents the dozen pieces.

BENEFICIARY AID.

To those whose pecuniary necessities require it, one hundred dollars a year are given from the funds of the Seminary. Applicants for this aid are required to present certificates, signed by three responsible persons, testifying to their indigent circumstances. No student can receive charitable assistance the first year who is not examined and approved within the first five weeks of the year; nor can a student be absent more than five weeks of term time, unless it be on account of sickness, without forfeiting his aid for the year from the Seminary funds.

Beneficiaries of the American Education Society receive, in addition, such aid as the funds of the society may afford. The appropriations usually amount to one hundred dollars annually.

Still further assistance has been furnished in money and clothing, by individuals in the neighboring cities and villages, to such as have needed this aid. Contributions valued at several hundred dollars were thus appropriated during the last year.

A society of ladies exists, in connection with the Seminary, whose funds are specially devoted to the relief of students who are subjected to the expenses of sickness.

Members of the Senior Class are also able, generally, to add to their pecuniary resources by preaching in vacant pulpits a portion of the time during the year.

Although students in the Special Course cannot receive aid from beneficiary endowments designed for students in the full course, the Trustees aim to extend to them every facility and provide for them every aid in their power; and they indulge the hope that none will be debarred from this course of study for want of pecuniary aid. For the present, the pledges of friends authorize the Trustees to pay needy students in this department $100, each, yearly; and board can be had at the same rates with the other students.

SUMMARY.

NECESSARY ANNUAL EXPENSES.

1. Room and furniture - - - - - -	$3.00
2. Library - - - - - - - -	3.00
3. Lecture-rooms and incidentals - - - -	5.00
4. Fuel and lights, if with a room-mate, average - -	25.00

To which are to be added the expenses of washing, mending, etc.

PECUNIARY AID.

1. From the Funds of the Seminary a sum which, if increased by the usual appropriations of the American Education Society, will amount to $200.

2. Contributions in money and clothing, amounting to several hundred dollars annually, are distributed among those who need.

3. There are funds specially devoted to students subjected to the expenses of sickness.

4. Members of the Senior Class can generally increase their income by preaching a portion of the time during the year.

5. Special arrangement to diminish the cost of board.

GENERAL REMARKS.

The Seminary, while it enjoys the advantages of rural quiet, is yet within two or three miles of several populous manufacturing villages in Andover, within four miles of Lawrence, ten of Lowell, Bradford, and Haverhill, fifteen of Salem, and twenty of Boston, Charlestown, Cambridge, etc. Being thus within an hour's distance by railroad from the most flourishing cities and towns of Eastern Massachusetts, it offers many facilities for agreeable exercise.

A well-furnished Gymnasium is open for the use of the students.

The General Policy of this Institution is established by a long and successful experience. The guardianship exercised over its members, aims at promoting a combination of thoroughness in mental discipline, and of large acquisitions, with a thoughtful piety.

This object its friends believe to be pre-eminently favored by its rural situation in the midst of the most densely peopled section of the country.

APPENDIX.

CONDITIONS OF MEMBERSHIP.

The Seminary is open for the admission of Protestants of all denominations.

Applicants for the privileges of the Seminary shall, previously to their admission, be examined by the Faculty respecting their Christian character, their regular membership in a church of Christ, their object in pursuing theological studies, and their possession of good natural talents and of a liberal education. Exception is made in some cases to the requirement of formal connection with a church, and of a complete collegiate education; but in such cases the candidate is required to subscribe a declaration of his belief in the Christian religion, and give evidence of such scholarship as will enable him successfully to pursue all the studies of the theological course.

In case of application for admission to an advanced standing, the candidate will be liable to an examination also in all the studies which have been pursued by the class with which he wishes to be connected.

All candidates for admission are required to express their purpose to complete, at some place, three full years of theological study, unless prevented by some unforeseen and unavoidable necessity.

Admission to the Class of Resident Licentiates is granted only to those who make application for it to the Faculty, and who have honorably completed a course of three years of professional study at a Theological Seminary, or have otherwise obtained the equivalent of such a course.

The Special Course is designed for such students only as in the judgment of the Faculty, on account of their age or some other peculiar disability, are precluded from the regular course of study; and applicants of this class are admitted by the concurrent action of the Faculty and the Trustees. Persons of suitable age for pursuing Academic and Collegiate Studies are not admitted to this Course.

TERMS AND VACATIONS.

This Institution is designed to give the most thorough theological culture that can be obtained by a course of three years' study.

To effect this object it is deemed essential that nine full months be devoted to study in each year, and that this period be so divided by suitable vacations as to secure to the studies of the Course those portions of the year which are most favorable to mental vigor.

Accordingly, the first term of the present Seminary Year will end on Thursday, March 7th, followed by a vacation of three weeks. The second term will commence on Thursday, March 28th, and continue till the Anniversary, Thursday, June 27th, to be followed by a vacation of nine weeks. The first term of the next Seminary Year will begin on Thursday, August 29th.

The Lectures to all the classes begin promptly: it is therefore important that all the students should be present at the beginning of the Seminary year. In the study of Hebrew, any considerable loss of time at this stage will subject the student to a serious disadvantage.

It is, furthermore, earnestly recommended that students so arrange their plans that the whole of every term shall be devoted exclusively to their duties in the Seminary. Experience has proved that the labor of teaching, and of other similar avocations, during term-time, is an evil. Students are advised to avoid it. Even the vacations should not be unnecessarily spent in exhausting pursuits.

INSTRUCTION.

REGULAR COURSE.

The studies of the several years are conducted to a large extent in parallel Courses; special prominence being given each year to particular branches as indicated in the following statement:

Junior Year.

The Junior Year is devoted to the study of the Hebrew and Greek Scriptures, Systematic Theology, Homiletics, Church History, and Elocution.

Middle Year.

The Middle Year is devoted to Systematic Theology, the Hebrew and Greek Scriptures, Church History, and Elocution.

Senior Year.

The Senior Year is devoted to Church History, Homiletics, the Hebrew and Greek Scriptures, Pastoral Theology, and Elocution.

SPECIAL COURSE.

All Students in this Course have access to such Lectures in the Regular Course, under the direction of the Smith Professor, as they are fitted to attend; and also pursue through their first year a series of Historical Studies in the English version of the Scriptures.

SUPPLEMENTARY LECTURES.

In addition to the regular course of instruction, special courses of lectures are delivered by eminent clergymen, on the following subjects: Foreign Missions, Home Missions, Popular Infidelity, Congregationalism, Intellectual Philosophy, and Egyptology.

EXAMINATIONS.

At the close of each term the students are publicly examined by their respective instructors, before a Board of Examiners, on the studies of the term. The first examination of this year will begin on Monday afternoon, March 4th. The second will begin on Monday, June 24th. The Anniversary Exercises will take place June 26th and June 27th.

SOCIETIES.

The Porter Rhetorical Society meets bi-weekly for Literary Criticism, Discussions, and Orations. Once each month this Society holds a public meeting, which is attended by the citizens of the place.

The Society of Inquiry is specially designed for the Study of Missions. It holds bi-weekly meetings, whose exercises are enriched by correspondence with those of the Alumni of the Seminary who are in the Missionary service.

The two Societies unite at the close of the year in a public Anniversary Exercise, at which Addresses are delivered by members from the Middle Class.

LIBRARY.

The Library of the Seminary, lately removed to Brechin Hall, erected for it by the munificence of the Messieurs John Smith, Peter Smith, and John Dove, of Andover, now numbers about 30,000 volumes. It is opened daily for the examination and drawing of books.

The Library is annually increased by the income of funds appropriated to this object.

EXPENSES AND BENEFICIARY AID.

EXPENSES.

No expense is incurred for instruction, and none by undergraduates for rooms in the public buildings, except three dollars a year for the care of rooms and beds, and the use of furniture.

Each student also pays three dollars a year for the use of the Library, and five dollars a year for the care, warming, and lighting of lecture-rooms and the chapel, for the ringing of the bell, and for other incidental expenses; and three dollars a year for the use of the Gymnasium, if he shall choose this exercise; gratuitous instruction in gymnastics is provided for those who may desire it.

Resident Licentiates pay three dollars a year for the use of the Library.

The rooms in Phillips Hall have been recently put in thorough repair, and supplied with new furniture, including all articles needed, except stoves. The average expense for fuel and lights, if a room has two occupants, is about twenty-five dollars a year. The rooms in Bartlett Hall also will be fully refurnished in the course of the present year.

To aid in providing board the Trustees have appropriated and furnished a convenient Club-house near the Seminary, and assume the expense of a Matron for the same; members of the club are charged only the actual cost of their board, beyond this. From experience it is expected that the cost will not exceed $3.50 per week. In private families the price is about five dollars.

Washing is done for sixty cents the dozen pieces.

BENEFICIARY AID.

To those whose pecuniary necessities require it, one hundred dollars a year are given from the funds of the Seminary. Applicants for this aid are required to present certificates, signed by three responsible persons, testifying to their indigent circumstances. No student can receive charitable assistance the first year who is not examined and approved within the first five weeks of the year; nor can a student be absent more than five weeks of term time, unless it be on account of sickness, without forfeiting his aid for the year from the Seminary funds.

Beneficiaries of the American Education Society receive, in addition, such aid as the funds of the society may afford. The appropriations usually amount to one hundred dollars annually.

Still further assistance has been furnished in money and clothing, by individuals in the neighboring cities and villages, to such as have needed this aid. Contributions valued at several hundred dollars were thus appropriated during the last year.

A society of ladies exists, in connection with the Seminary, whose funds are specially devoted to the relief of students who are subjected to the expenses of sickness.

Members of the Senior Class are also able, generally, to add to their pecuniary resources by preaching in vacant pulpits a portion of the time during the year.

Students in the Special Course can receive, if they need it, the same beneficiary aid as others, and can obtain board at the same rates.

SUMMARY.

NECESSARY ANNUAL EXPENSES.

1. Room and furniture - - - - -	$3.00
2. Library - - - - - - -	3.00
3. Lecture-rooms and incidentals - - - -	5.00
4. Fuel and lights, if with a room-mate, average - -	25.00
5. Board at the Club - - - - -	140.00
Total - -	$176.00

To which are to be added the expenses of washing, mending, etc.

PECUNIARY AID.

1. From the Funds of the Seminary a sum which, if increased by the usual appropriations of the American Education Society, will amount to $200.

2. Contributions in money and clothing, amounting to several hundred dollars annually, are distributed among those who need.

3. There are funds specially devoted to students subjected to the expenses of sickness.

4. Members of the Senior Class can generally increase their income by preaching a portion of the time during the year.

5. Special arrangement to diminish the cost of board.

GENERAL REMARKS.

The Seminary, while it enjoys the advantages of rural quiet, is yet within two or three miles of several populous manufacturing villages in Andover, within four miles of Lawrence, ten of Lowell, Bradford, and Haverhill, fifteen of Salem, and twenty of Boston, Charlestown, Cambridge, etc. It is thus within an hour's distance by railroad from the most flourishing cities and towns of Eastern Massachusetts.

A well-furnished Gymnasium is open for the use of the students.

The General Policy of this Institution is established by a long and successful experience. The guardianship exercised over its members, aims at promoting a combination of thoroughness in mental discipline, and of large acquisitions, with a devoted piety, and an active interest in Christian Missions.

Form of a Bequest to the Treasury of the Seminary.

"I give and bequeath to the Trustees of Phillips Academy, at Andover, Mass., the sum of_____dollars, in trust; the principal of said sum to be safely invested by them, and the interest thereof appropriated under their direction, for the use of the Theological Seminary under their care."

CONDITIONS OF MEMBERSHIP.

The Seminary is open for the admission of Protestants of all denominations.

Applicants for the privileges of the Seminary shall, previously to their admission, be examined by the Faculty respecting their Christian character, their regular membership in a church of Christ, their object in pursuing theological studies, and their possession of good natural talents and of a liberal education. Exception is made in some cases to the requirement of formal connection with a church, and of a complete collegiate education; but in such cases the candidate is required to subscribe a declaration of his belief in the Christian religion, and give evidence of such scholarship as will enable him successfully to pursue all the studies of the theological course.

In case of application for admission to an advanced standing, the candidate will be liable to an examination also in all the studies which have been pursued by the class with which he wishes to be connected.

All candidates for admission are required to express their purpose to complete, at some place, three full years of theological study, unless prevented by some unforeseen and unavoidable necessity.

Admission to the Class of Resident Licentiates is granted only to those who make application for it to the Faculty, and who have honorably completed a course of three years of professional study at a Theological Seminary, or have otherwise obtained the equivalent of such a course.

The Special Course is designed for such students only as in the judgment of the Faculty, on account of their age or some other peculiar disability, are precluded from the regular course of study; and applicants of this class are admitted by the concurrent action of the Faculty and the Trustees. Persons of suitable age for pursuing Academic and Collegiate Studies are not admitted to this Course.

TERMS AND VACATIONS.

This Institution is designed to give the most thorough theological culture that can be obtained by a course of three years' study.

To effect this object it is deemed essential that nine full months be devoted to study in each year, and that this period be so divided by suitable vacations as to secure to the studies of the Course those portions of the year which are most favorable to mental vigor.

Accordingly, the first term of the present Seminary Year will end on Thursday, March 6th, and be followed by a vacation of three weeks. The second term will commence on Thursday, March 27th, and continue till the Anniversary, Thursday, July 3d, to be followed by a vacation of nine weeks. The first term of the next Seminary Year will begin on Thursday, Sept. 4th.

The Lectures to all the classes begin promptly: it is therefore important that all the students should be present at the beginning of the Seminary year. In the study of Hebrew, any considerable loss of time at this stage will subject the student to a serious disadvantage.

It is, furthermore, earnestly recommended that students so arrange their plans that the whole of every term shall be devoted exclusively to their duties in the Seminary. Experience has proved that the labor of teaching, and of other similar avocations, during term-time, is an evil. Students are advised to avoid it. Even the vacations should not be unnecessarily spent in exhausting pursuits.

INSTRUCTION.

REGULAR COURSE.

The studies of the several years are conducted to a large extent in parallel Courses; special prominence being given each year to particular branches as indicated in the following statement:

Junior Year.

The Junior Year is devoted to the study of the Hebrew and Greek Scriptures, Systematic Theology, Homiletics, Church History, and Elocution.

Middle Year.

The Middle Year is devoted to Systematic Theology, the Hebrew and Greek Scriptures, Church History, and Elocution.

Senior Year.

The Senior Year is devoted to Church History, Homiletics, the Hebrew and Greek Scriptures, Pastoral Theology, and Elocution.

SPECIAL COURSE.

All Students in this Course have access to such Lectures in the Regular Course, under the direction of the Smith Professor, as they are fitted to attend; and also pursue through their first year a series of Historical Studies in the English version of the Scriptures.

SUPPLEMENTARY LECTURES.

In addition to the regular course of instruction, special courses of lectures are delivered by eminent clergymen, on the following subjects: Foreign Missions, Home Missions, Popular Infidelity, Congregationalism, Intellectual Philosophy, and Egyptology.

EXAMINATIONS.

At the close of each term the students are publicly examined by their respective instructors, before a Board of Examiners, on the studies of the term. The first examination of this year will begin on Monday afternoon, March 3d. The second will begin on Monday, June 30th. The Anniversary Exercises will take place July 2d and July 3d.

SOCIETIES.

The Porter Rhetorical Society meets bi-weekly for Literary Criticism, Discussions, and Orations. Once each month this Society holds a public meeting, which is attended by the citizens of the place.

The Society of Inquiry is specially designed for the Study of Missions. It holds bi-weekly meetings, whose exercises are enriched by correspondence with those of the Alumni of the Seminary who are in the Missionary service.

The two Societies unite at the close of the year in a public Anniversary Exercise, at which Addresses are delivered by members from the Middle Class.

LIBRARY.

The Library of the Seminary, lately removed to Brechin Hall, erected for it by the munificence of the Messieurs John Smith, Peter Smith, and John Dove, of Andover, now numbers about 30,000 volumes. It is opened daily for the examination and drawing of books.

The Library is annually increased by the income of funds appropriated to this object.

EXPENSES AND BENEFICIARY AID.

EXPENSES.

No expense is incurred for instruction, and none by undergraduates for rooms in the public buildings, except three dollars a year for the care of rooms and beds, and the use of furniture.

Each student also pays three dollars a year for the use of the Library, and five dollars a year for the care, warming, and lighting of lecture-rooms and the chapel, for the ringing of the bell, and for other incidental expenses; and three dollars a year for the use of the Gymnasium, if he shall choose this exercise; gratuitous instruction in gymnastics is provided for those who may desire it.

Resident Licentiates pay three dollars a year for the use of the Library.

The rooms in both Phillips Hall and Bartlett Hall have been recently put in thorough repair, and supplied with new furniture, including all articles needed, except stoves. The average expense for fuel and lights, if a room has two occupants, is about twenty-five dollars a year. Rooms at the opening of the Seminary year are assigned to applicants for admission in the order of their application.

To aid in providing board the Trustees have appropriated and furnished a convenient Club-house near the Seminary, and assume the expense of a Matron for the same; members of the club are charged only the actual cost of their board, beyond this. From experience it is expected that the cost will not exceed $3.50 per week. In private families the price is about five dollars.

Washing is done for sixty cents the dozen pieces.

BENEFICIARY AID.

To those whose pecuniary necessities require it, one hundred dollars a year are given from the funds of the Seminary. Applicants for this aid are required to present certificates, signed by three responsible persons, testifying to their indigent circumstances. No student can receive charitable assistance the first year who is not examined and approved within the first five weeks of the year; nor can a student be absent more than five weeks of term time, unless it be on account of sickness, without forfeiting his aid for the year from the Seminary funds.

Beneficiaries of the American Education Society receive, in addition, such aid as the funds of the society may afford. The appropriations usually amount to one hundred dollars annually.

Still further assistance has been furnished in money and clothing, by individuals in the neighboring cities and villages, to such as have needed this aid. Contributions valued at several hundred dollars were thus appropriated during the last year.

A society of ladies exists, in connection with the Seminary, whose funds are specially devoted to the relief of students who are subjected to the expenses of sickness.

Members of the Senior Class are also able, generally, to add to their pecuniary resources by preaching in vacant pulpits a portion of the time during the year.

Students in the Special Course can receive, if they need it, the same beneficiary aid as others, and can obtain board at the same rates.

SUMMARY.

NECESSARY ANNUAL EXPENSES.

1. Room and furniture - - - - -	$3.00
2. Library - - - - - - -	3.00
3. Lecture-rooms and incidentals - - - -	5.00
4. Fuel and lights, if with a room-mate, average - -	25.00
5. Board at the Club - - - - -	140.00
Total - -	$176.00

To which are to be added the expenses of washing, mending, etc.

PECUNIARY AID.

1. From the Funds of the Seminary a sum which, if increased by the usual appropriations of the American Education Society, will amount to $200.

2. Contributions in money and clothing, amounting to several hundred dollars annually, are distributed among those who need.

3. There are funds specially devoted to students subjected to the expenses of sickness.

4. Members of the Senior Class can generally increase their income by preaching a portion of the time during the year.

5. Special arrangement to diminish the cost of board.

GENERAL REMARKS.

The Seminary, while it enjoys the advantages of rural quiet, is yet within two or three miles of several populous manufacturing villages in Andover, within four miles of Lawrence, ten of Lowell, Bradford, and Haverhill, fifteen of Salem, and twenty of Boston, Charlestown, Cambridge, etc. It is thus within an hour's distance by railroad from the most flourishing cities and towns of Eastern Massachusetts.

A well-furnished Gymnasium is open for the use of the students.

The General Policy of this Institution is established by a long and successful experience. The guardianship exercised over its members, aims at promoting a combination of thoroughness in mental discipline, and of large acquisitions, with a devoted piety, and an active interest in Christian Missions.

Form of a Bequest to the Treasury of the Seminary.

"I give and bequeath to the Trustees of Phillips Academy, at Andover, Mass., the sum of_____dollars, in trust; the principal of said sum to be safely invested by them, and the interest thereof appropriated under their direction, for the use of the Theological Seminary under their care."

APPENDIX.

CONDITIONS OF MEMBERSHIP.

The Seminary is open for the admission of Protestants of all denominations.

Applicants for the privileges of the Seminary shall, previously to their admission, be examined by the Faculty respecting their Christian character, their regular membership in a church of Christ, their object in pursuing theological studies, and their possession of good natural talents and of a liberal education. Exception is made in some cases to the requirement of formal connection with a church, and of a complete collegiate education; but in such cases the candidate is required to subscribe a declaration of his belief in the Christian religion, and give evidence of such scholarship as will enable him successfully to pursue all the studies of the theological course.

In case of application for admission to an advanced standing, the candidate will be liable to an examination also in all the studies which have been pursued by the class with which he wishes to be connected.

All candidates for admission are required to express their purpose to complete, at some place, three full years of theological study, unless prevented by some unforeseen and unavoidable necessity.

Admission to the Class of Resident Licentiates is granted only to those who make application for it to the Faculty, and who have honorably completed a course of three years of professional study at a Theological Seminary, or have otherwise obtained the equivalent of such a course.

The Special Course is designed, not for applicants at their option, but for such students only as in the judgment of the Faculty, on account of their age or some other peculiar disability, are precluded from the regular course of study; and applicants of this class are admitted by the concurrent action of the Faculty and the Trustees. Persons of suitable age for pursuing Academic and Collegiate Studies are not admitted to this Course.

TERMS AND VACATIONS.

This Institution is designed to give the most thorough theological culture that can be obtained by a course of three years' study.

To effect this object it is deemed essential that nine full months be devoted to study in each year, and that this period be so divided by suitable vacations as to secure to the studies of the Course those portions of the year which are most favorable to mental vigor.

Accordingly, the first term of the present Seminary Year will end on Thursday, March 12th, and be followed by a vacation of three weeks. The second term will commence on Thursday, April 2d, and continue till the Anniversary, Thursday, July 2d, to be followed by a vacation of nine weeks. The first term of the next Seminary Year will begin on Thursday, Sept. 3d.

The Lectures to all the classes begin promptly: it is therefore important that all the students should be present at the beginning of the Seminary year. In the study of Hebrew, any considerable loss of time at this stage will subject the student to a serious disadvantage.

It is, furthermore, earnestly recommended that students so arrange their plans that the whole of every term shall be devoted exclusively to their duties in the Seminary. Experience has proved that the labor of teaching, and of other similar avocations, during term-time, is an evil. Students are advised to avoid it. Even the vacations should not be unnecessarily spent in exhausting pursuits.

INSTRUCTION.

REGULAR COURSE.

The studies of the several years are conducted to a large extent in parallel Courses; special prominence being given each year to particular branches as indicated in the following statement:

Junior Year.

The Junior Year is devoted to the study of the Hebrew and Greek Scriptures, Systematic Theology, Homiletics, Church History, and Elocution.

Middle Year.

The Middle Year is devoted to Systematic Theology, the Hebrew and Greek Scriptures, Church History, and Elocution.

Senior Year.

The Senior Year is devoted to Church History, Homiletics, the Hebrew and Greek Scriptures, Pastoral Theology, and Elocution.

SPECIAL COURSE.

All Students in this Course have access to such Lectures in the Regular Course, under the direction of the Smith Professor, as they are fitted to attend; and also pursue through their first year a series of Historical Studies in the English version of the Scriptures.

SUPPLEMENTARY LECTURES.

In addition to the regular course of instruction, special courses of lectures are delivered by eminent clergymen, on Foreign Missions, Home Missions, and Congregationalism.

EXAMINATIONS.

At the close of each term the students are publicly examined by their respective instructors, before a Board of Examiners, on the studies of the term. The first examination of this year will begin on Monday afternoon, March 9th. The second will begin on Monday, June 29th. The Anniversary Exercises will take place July 1st and July 2d.

SOCIETIES.

The Porter Rhetorical Society meets bi-weekly for Literary Criticism, Discussions, and Orations. Once each month this Society holds a public meeting, which is attended by the citizens of the place.

The Society of Inquiry is specially designed for the Study of Missions. It holds bi-weekly meetings, whose exercises are enriched by correspondence with those of the Alumni of the Seminary who are in the Missionary service.

The two Societies unite at the close of the year in a public Anniversary Exercise, at which Addresses are delivered by members from the Middle Class.

LIBRARY.

The Library of the Seminary, lately removed to Brechin Hall, erected for it by the munificence of the Messieurs John Smith, Peter Smith, and John Dove, of Andover, now numbers about 30,000 volumes. It is opened daily for the examination and drawing of books.

The Library is annually increased by the income of funds appropriated to this object.

EXPENSES AND BENEFICIARY AID.

EXPENSES.

No expense is incurred for instruction, and none by undergraduates for rooms in the public buildings.

To cover in part some items which have heretofore been charged in detail in the Term bills, each student will hereafter pay yearly the sum of ten dollars; to those who use the Gymnasium there will be a farther yearly charge of three dollars. Resident Licentiates are charged three dollars yearly for the use of the Library.

The rooms in both Phillips Hall and Bartlett Hall have been recently put in thorough repair, and supplied with new furniture, including all articles needed, except stoves. The average expense for fuel and lights, if a room has two occupants, is about twenty-five dollars a year. Rooms at the opening of the Seminary year are assigned to applicants for admission in the order of their application.

To aid in providing board the Trustees have appropriated and furnished a convenient Club-house near the Seminary, and assume the expense of a Matron for the same; members of the club are charged only the actual cost of their board, beyond this; and this cost necessarily varies not only with the price of provisions, but with the numbers in the club, and with the tastes of its members. The experience of past years has shown that with a full club the price may be expected to be about $3.50 per week; in private families the price is from $4 to $6 a week.

Washing is done for sixty cents the dozen pieces.

BENEFICIARY AID.

To those whose pecuniary necessities require it, one hundred dollars a year are given from the funds of the Seminary. Applicants for this aid are required to present certificates, signed by three responsible persons, testifying to their indigent circumstances. No student can receive charitable assistance the first year who is not examined and approved within the first five weeks of the year; nor can a student be absent more than five weeks of term time, unless it be on account of sickness, without forfeiting his aid for the year from the Seminary funds.

Beneficiaries of the American Education Society receive, in addition, such aid as the funds of the society may afford. The appropriations usually amount to one hundred dollars annually.

Still further assistance has been furnished in money and clothing, by individuals in the neighboring cities and villages, to such as have needed this aid. Contributions valued at several hundred dollars were thus appropriated during the last year.

A society of ladies exists, in connection with the Seminary, whose funds are specially devoted to the relief of students who are subjected to the expenses of sickness.

Members of the Senior Class are also able, generally, to add to their pecuniary resources by preaching in vacant pulpits a portion of the time during the year.

Students in the Special Course can receive, if they need it, the same beneficiary aid as others, and can obtain board at the same rates.

SUMMARY.

NECESSARY ANNUAL EXPENSES.

1. The Term bills, - - - - - -	$10.00
2. Fuel and lights, if with a room-mate, average - -	25.00
3. Board at the Club - - - - - -	140.00
Total, - -	$175.00

To which are to be added the expenses of washing, mending, etc.

PECUNIARY AID.

1. From the Funds of the Seminary a sum which, if increased by the usual appropriations of the American Education Society, will amount to $200.

2. Contributions in money and clothing, amounting to several hundred dollars annually, are distributed among those who need.

3. There are funds specially devoted to students subjected to the expenses of sickness.

4. Members of the Senior Class can generally increase their income by preaching a portion of the time during the year.

5. Special arrangement to diminish the cost of board.

GENERAL REMARKS.

The Seminary, while it enjoys the advantages of rural quiet, is yet within two or three miles of several populous manufacturing villages in Andover, within four miles of Lawrence, ten of Lowell, Bradford, and Haverhill, fifteen of Salem, and twenty of Boston, Charlestown, Cambridge, etc. It is thus within an hour's distance by railroad from the most flourishing cities and towns of Eastern Massachusetts.

A well-furnished Gymnasium is open for the use of the students.

The General Policy of this Institution is established by a long and successful experience. The guardianship exercised over its members, aims at promoting a combination of thoroughness in mental discipline, and of large acquisitions, with a devoted piety, and an active interest in Christian Missions.

Form of a Bequest to the Treasury of the Seminary.

"I give and bequeath to the Trustees of Phillips Academy, at Andover, Mass., the sum of _____ dollars, in trust; the principal of said sum to be safely invested by them, and the interest thereof appropriated under their direction, for the use of the Theological Seminary under their care."

The Middle Year is devoted to Systematic Theology, the Hebrew and Greek Scriptures, Church History, and Elocution.

Senior Year.

The Senior Year is devoted to Church History, Homiletics, the Hebrew and Greek Scriptures, Pastoral Theology, and Elocution.

SPECIAL COURSE.

All Students in this Course have access to such Lectures in the Regular Course, under the direction of the Smith Professor, as they are fitted to attend; and also pursue through their first year a series of Historical Studies in the English version of the Scriptures.

SUPPLEMENTARY LECTURES.

In addition to the regular course of instruction, special courses of lectures are delivered by eminent clergymen, on Foreign Missions, Home Missions, and Congregationalism.

EXAMINATIONS.

At the close of each term the students are publicly examined by their respective instructors, before a Board of Examiners, on the studies of the term. The first examination of this year will begin on Monday afternoon, March 8th. The second will begin on Monday, June 28th. The Anniversary Exercises will take place June 30th and July 1st.

SOCIETIES.

The Porter Rhetorical Society meets bi-weekly for Literary Criticism, Discussions, and Orations. Once each month this Society holds a public meeting, which is attended by the citizens of the place.

The Society of Inquiry is specially designed for the Study of Missions. It holds bi-weekly meetings, whose exercises are enriched by correspondence with such Alumni of the Seminary as are in the Missionary service.

The two Societies unite at the close of the year in a public Anniversary Exercise, at which Addresses are delivered by members from the Middle Class.

LIBRARY.

The Library of the Seminary, lately removed to Brechin Hall, erected for it by the munificence of the Messieurs John Smith, Peter Smith, and John Dove, of Andover, now numbers about 30,000 volumes. It is opened daily for the examination and drawing of books.

The Library is annually increased by the income of funds appropriated to this object.

EXPENSES AND BENEFICIARY AID.

EXPENSES.

No expense is incurred for instruction, and none by undergraduates for rooms in the public buildings.

To cover in part some items which have heretofore been charged in detail in the Term bills, each student will hereafter pay yearly the sum of ten dollars; to those who use the Gymnasium there will be a farther yearly charge of three dollars. Resident Licentiates are charged three dollars yearly for the use of the Library.

The rooms in both Phillips Hall and Bartlet Hall have been recently put in thorough repair, and supplied with new furniture, including all articles needed, except stoves. The average expense for fuel and lights, if a room has two occupants, is about fifteen dollars a year. Rooms at the opening of the Seminary year are assigned to applicants for admission in the order of their application.

The price of board at the Seminary boarding-house, provided by the Trustees, is at present $3.50 a week; and at other boarding-houses in the town from $4 to $6 a week.

Washing is done for sixty cents the dozen pieces.

BENEFICIARY AID.

To those whose pecuniary necessities require it, one hundred dollars a year are given from the funds of the Seminary. Applicants for this aid are required to present certificates, signed by three responsible persons, testifying to their indigent circumstances. No student can receive charitable assistance the first year who is not examined and approved within the first five weeks of the year; nor can a student be absent more than five weeks of term time, unless it be on account of sickness, without forfeiting his aid for the year from the Seminary funds.

Beneficiaries of the American Education Society receive, in addition, such aid as the funds of the society may afford. The appropriations usually amount to one hundred dollars annually.

Still further assistance has been furnished in money and clothing, by individuals in the neighboring cities and villages, to such as have needed this aid. Contributions valued at several hundred dollars were thus appropriated during the last year.

A society of ladies exists, in connection with the Seminary, whose funds are specially devoted to the relief of students who are subjected to the expenses of sickness.

Members of the Senior Class are also able, generally, to add to their pecuniary resources by preaching in vacant pulpits a portion of the time during the year.

Students in the Special Course can receive, if they need it, the same beneficiary aid as others, and can obtain board at the same rates.

GENERAL REMARKS.

The Seminary, while it enjoys the advantages of rural quiet, is yet within two or three miles of several populous manufacturing villages in Andover, within four miles of Lawrence, ten of Lowell, Bradford, and Haverhill, fifteen of Salem, and twenty of Boston, Charlestown, Cambridge, etc. It is thus within an hour's distance by railroad from the most flourishing cities and towns of Eastern Massachusetts.

A well-furnished Gymnasium is open for the use of the students.

The General Policy of this Institution is established by a long and successful experience. The guardianship exercised over its members, aims at promoting a combination of thoroughness in mental discipline, and of large acquisitions, with a devoted piety, and an active interest in Christian Missions.

Form of a Bequest to the Treasury of the Seminary.

"I give and bequeath to the Trustees of Phillips Academy, at Andover, Mass., the sum of_____dollars, in trust; the principal of said sum to be safely invested by them, and the interest thereof appropriated under their direction, for the use or the Theological Seminary under their care."
